

Planning Director
San Miguel County, Colorado

Located in southwest Colorado, San Miguel County (pop. 8,000, 1289 sq. mi.) has stunning scenic beauty and a rich, colorful history. From the dramatic San Juan Mountains and world-class skiing in incomparable Telluride (county seat) in the east to the high-desert ranches and farms stretching west to the Utah border, San Miguel County is geographically and socio-economically diverse, and a state and national treasure. After 18 years of successful service, the County's Planning Director is retiring. The County Commissioners are committed to finding an expert replacement for one of the best planning jobs anywhere.

Bachelor's degree (urban planning or design, landscape architecture, or related); five years of progressively responsible experience in urban planning or community development; and management and supervisory experience in planning are required. Master's degree, AICP certification, and ten years of experience preferred. Comprehensive benefits. Initial annual salary range $105,000 - $115,000 DOQE. Relocation and housing assistance subject to negotiation.
